

Tamas Balogh, M.D. was born in 1964 in Nagykoros, Hungary to Agnes and Jozsef Balogh. He received his primary and secondary education in his hometown. At the age of 18 he got accepted at the Semmelweis Medical University in Budapest, and graduated there cum laude as a Medical Doctor in 1988. He spent many of his clinical training at the Gutenberg University in Mainz, Germany.

After graduation Dr. Balogh moved to the University of Illinois at Chicago for postgraduate medical training. He completed his Residency in Internal Medicine in 1993 and his Fellowship in Cardiovascular Diseases in 1996, both at the University of Illinois at Chicago. After completing his formal medical training in 1996, Dr. Balogh moved to Mt. Airy NC and was a founding partner of Blue Ridge Cardiology and Internal Medicine P.A.

Over the last 15 years our Mount Airy Blue Ridge Medical Group has grown into a multispecialty group. Dr. Balogh and his patients benefit from his close association with family practitioners, internal medicine specialists, sleep medicine specialists and a pulmonologist working under the same roof in one office.

Dr. Balogh is an active member of the Northern Hospital Medical Staff and will be able to treat you and your heart condition in case you are admitted to the hospital.

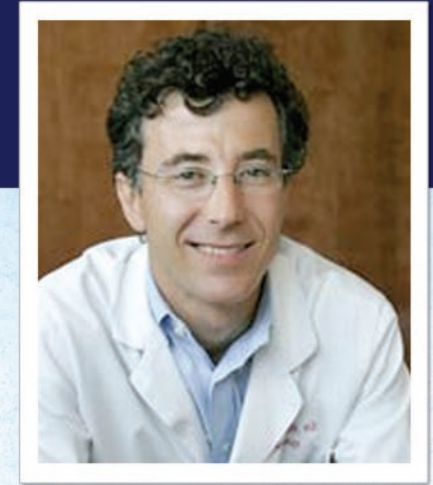

Since 2007 he has been teaching nuclear cardiology to trainees in cardiology at Wake Forest University Medical School and was appointed Clinical Assistant Professor of Cardiology.

Dr. Balogh is married and has three teenage children. In his free time he likes to spend time outdoors bicycling, hiking and gardening and he loves reading.
